Beijing Facilitators

Annual Work Report of 2018

Summary

The year of 2018 was the second year of the period covered by Beijing Facilitators' 4th Five-Year Strategic Plan. With the service strategy combining service innovation, research and advocacy, as well as professional support to grassroots NGOs, we have been working closely with the communities to offer innovative social work services and conduct service-based qualitative researches to draw on local experiences to better support social workers and NGOs in China.

In the past year, Beijing Facilitators has undertaken 1,104 service-related activities for children in difficulty and their families, old people and community residents, benefiting people a total of 32,172 times, offering consultation service to NGOs a total of 14,890 times, with 642 events and 29,141 participants.

After three years, the experiences of Dream Catchers, the community children' centers, have been summarized to a service model focusing on child-centered services with in-depth family involvement and community participation that can bring social change. We have refined our experiences into a community children's center manual to provide technical support for the construction of more children's centers throughout the city. For the third time, Dream Catchers received funding from the Ministry of Finance as well as financial support from ZhongShe Social Work Development Foundation to set a standard for evaluation of needs of children in difficulty and their families.

In 2018, Beijing Facilitators continued to run Beijing Social Organization Development Service Center and to support project monitoring and evaluation as a third party. Also, Beijing Facilitators drafted Beijing Social Organizations Incubation Platform Construction and Operation Regulations (Draft). We participated in the technical review of the national standard, Adolescent Social Work Service Guide and the discussion of Social Work Basic Terminology draft. Beijing Facilitators supported Dongcheng District Women's Federation to launch Social Organizations'

Home. Besides, contracted by Beijing Women's Federation, Beijing Facilitators undertook 'Women's Home' evaluation and capacity building project.

In this year, Beijing Facilitators published three research reports, which were Report on the Return of Migrant Workers in the Spring Festival, Report on the Establishment of Women's Home in Beijing and Evaluation Report on the Environmental Construction of Community in Dongsi Street, which were all included in the blue book of Social Organizations, i.e. Report on Social Organizations in China (2018).

In 2018, Beijing Facilitator combined the four aspects of the OMT analysis of the previous year to strengthen the four aspects, i.e. (1) Fund-raising and Donor Relations; (2) Financial Management; (3) Human Resources; (4) Safety and Security. Through team building, external training, and seeking professional cooperation and other means, we enhanced the organization's four aspects of capabilities, and constantly improved the organizational system and strengthen organizational development. We used external experts to support us on fundraising, image building and financial management and enhanced risk management through an effective mechanism as well as training.

The year of 2018 is the year of team building for Beijing Facilitators.
